

Which Students Have Intentions of Going to College After Graduation?

College intentions are graduating high schoolers who plan to pursue post-secondary education in a 2-year, 4-year, or community college system. Across Iowa, individuals that identify as Pacific Islander, Hispanic, Black, and Multi-Race have lower percent of collegiate intentions than those that identify as White or Asian.

Percent of High School Graduates with College Intentions after Graduation, 2018-2019

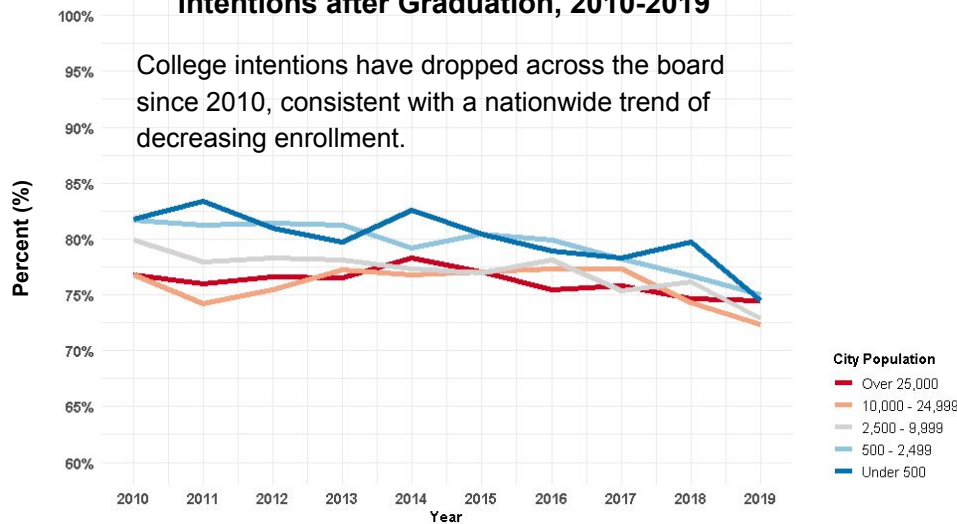

Percent of High School Graduates with College Intentions after Graduation by Sex, 2019-2020

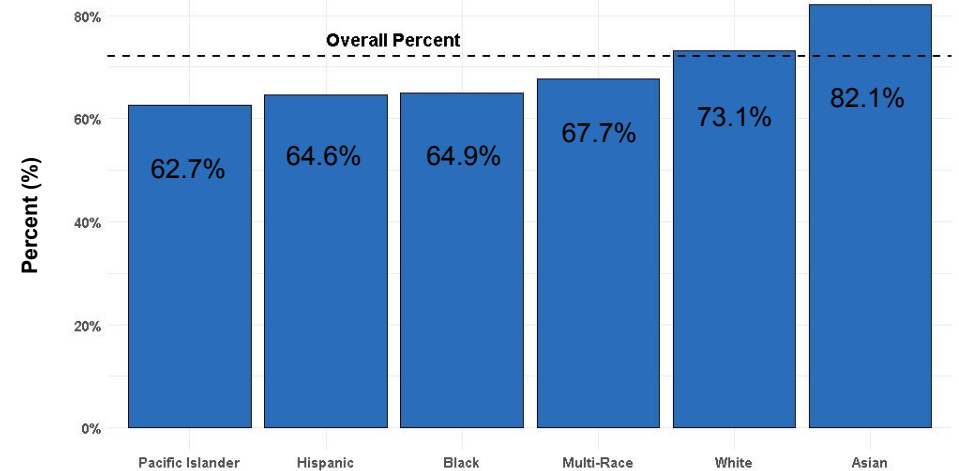

For the 2020 graduating class, female students intend on going to college at a higher percentage than that of male students.

Percent of High School Graduates with College Intentions after Graduation, 2010-2019

Percent of High School Graduates with College Intentions after Graduation by Race, 2019-2020

Just the Facts
Educational Attainment

© 2021 Iowa Department of Human Rights and Iowa State University Extension and Outreach
Last Updated: August 2021